Just got off the phone with D Magazine. Made sure he was up to speed. They are all over it but they are still struggling with figuring out what exactly the story is going to be; he communicated that they have not been able to get anyone from inside the company. Tim brought up to him trying to have a conversation with andrea. They just need someone from inside the company...so that they can have a "former employee" or "someone who has worked closely with _____ in the past". They would keep her name of the record but talking to her, he said, would help accelerate getting the story written, given no one will speak with him (has reached out to UDF, MM, and casey ford to no luck among others who he didn't mention).

Guys,

Please make sure you also get this to D Magazine, Dallas Morning News, and even the TV channels. Katheryn, please spend time thinking about how to get it to them.

Brandon, please make sure you have discussions with the local banks and business owners.

Thank you!
